PARLIAMENTARY.

It is understood that the intended criticism of the Crow's Nest railway affair is not likely to come on, as the company has made reparation to the parents of the young men who died on the road under such deplorable circumstances. The company evidently does not desire further criticism on that work.

Wm. Mackenzie is in Ottawa, and it is thought he is participating in the railway discussions now going on.

Hon. Messrs. Greenway and McMillan have had an interview with members of the government, but decline to say what decision, if any, has been arrived at.

Greenway and McMillan had a final interview with Laurier Saturday afternoon. The government has agreed to place $300,000 in the estimates this year, as an advance on the school lands fund, to help carry out educational work in Manitoba. The senate threw out the proposition last year, but it is thought it will not do it this year. The government has also promised to hand over to the province the control of school lands, which will be administered by the local government, the accounts being kept separately, so that the proceeds of the land go to benefit the schools.

A long debate took place in the house on the post office estimates. Mr. Mulock said that he estimated the decrease in revenue at $700,000 owing to the reduced postal rates, but it now looked as if it would only be $500,000.

There was very little preliminary business before supply was reached. On the supplementary, Mr. Blair said he would make a statement in a few days as to when the canal will be ready for navigation at a depth of 14 feet.

The minister also said that the item of $2,500 for the governor-general's car was an amount given to each governor when he arrived to have the car fixed to suit himself. Speaking of private cars Sir Wilfrid Laurier said to Mr. Foster that he used them occasionally in his official capacity, but he was still a democrat up to the hilt.

When the mounted police estimates were under consideration Mr. Sifton paid a tribute to the police and the excellent services they rendered the country.

The house adjourned at 1.35. In the house on the 26th, the minister of militia stated in reply to Mr. Clarke that 11,078 applications had been received for Canadian general service medals. Of these about two thousand were left over for further consideration and 471 applications had not yet been examined on account of having been received too late. It had not yet been decided how and when the distribution of medals would take place.

Mr. Davin moved a resolution condemning the government for not reducing the duty on agricultural implements. In talking to the motion Mr. Davin indulged in his usual extravagantly picturesque language.

With regard to Mr. Davin's resolution, the premier said the question had already been threshed out and that if it was meant seriously it should have been brought up when the tariff was under review in the budget debate. There was therefore nothing to do but vote the resolution down.

Mr. Davis, Saskatchewan, said Mr. Davin's only purpose was to play to the band wagon. In the house he filled the place a clown filled in a circus or the end man filled in a minstrel show. He quoted a long list of cottons, woollens and implements used by the west, on which duty had been reduced, and gave actual invoices of Winnipeg merchants, on which there was a substantial reduction in the amount of the duty paid from what would have been collected by the old tariff.

The debate was not concluded when 6 o'clock was reached.

The whole of the evening session was devoted to the Richardson civil service attachment of salaries bill. The discussion was in committee and a majority was against the bill. The motion to rise and report progress was carried by 26 to 17, after which the house adjourned at 11.15 p. m.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE WEST.

Toronto Globe: "In estimating the acreage shown in Manitoba this season the statement is made that during the past twelve months the number of farmers in the province has been increased by 2,500. The groups of European settlers, such as the Doukhobors, Galicians and Swedes, have taken up land in the Territories, so that they are not included in the estimate of the increase in the farming population of Manitoba. A proportion of these newcomers are from the United States, and settlers from there have also gone in large numbers to the Red Deer and Edmonton districts. These settlers in Alberta have found a market for their produce in the mining camps of British Columbia. By the old route the freight rates consumed a good part of the value of the article, and to no section of the community, therefore, will the Crow's Nest road be of more service than to the farmers of the Red Deer, Buffalo Lake and Edmonton districts.

"The market in British Columbia may be depended on to grow as rapidly as the community of producers, and we shall see the progress of one part of the Dominion reacting on another part, which was clearly in need of some such stimulant. The settlers going in to that part of the Northwest are various, but to a considerable extent they are from the United States. This is a movement that may well challenge attention. Compared with the teeming population of the States, the number emigrating from their borders is, of course, a drop from the ocean, but it nevertheless marks the arising of new social conditions there. It is the outward expression of the fact that the population of that great country is beginning to approximate to its resources, in land at least. One of the curious features of the settlement of the States was that there was ever a class who moved ahead of civilization. The privations of the wilderness, including the tomahawk of the savage, were not sufficient to intimidate this interesting vanguard of settlement. The situation to-day is that there is not a "further west" within the limits of the United States to satisfy this class. The last great area of unsettled arable land on this continent is our western prairies, and into them the men who can no longer find free land and good land are making their way in increasing numbers. It would be rash to prophesy what dimensions this movement may reach, but the conditions which drive them forth are not likely to be mitigated, and we may therefore look for a continual and increasing migration to our Northwest lands. The current was set flowing through Mr. Sifton's appointments of agents at various points in the United States in 1897, and we firmly believe that in a few years it will be found that the taking of this step was one of the most important new departures in our immigration policy."

EDMONTON TO CUST'S HOUSE.

C. F. Alexander, of the Dibble survey party, has given the Calgary Herald the following description of their trip to Graham and beyond, by way of refutation of the lying reports which have been published by interested parties concerning the difficulties to be met with on the Edmonton trail.

We pulled out from Edmonton, says Mr. Alexander, on July 12, 1898, travelling with pack train. The trail from Edmonton to Cust's house on the Peace river is on the whole very good. There is now a wagon road right to St. John. The first wagon seen there had got in a few days ahead of us. With very little expense a wagon trail could be made from St. John to Cust's house. There is no muskeg and the trail is fairly level. There are at least three hills that would require to be graded along the hills up and down to the south Pine river are much steeper than any between Cust's house and St. John. Between Edmonton and Cust's house there is good feed nearly all the way, and as a rule you get good water. From St. John to Fort Graham the trail is on the whole bad—muskeg, windfalls, and bad side hills nearly all the way. In early spring or late fall it is quite passable for pack trail. In mid-summer I should think (if a wet summer) it would be pretty tough. There is no regular pass over this trail; it simply means following creeks and ridges, and for a wagon trail I should say it is impracticable, but with some fixing would make a firm pack trail. For the last 50 miles the feed is very poor. We had it pretty tough, as all through the mountains we had over a foot of snow and were greatly delayed owing to our often missing the trail, as we had only a blaze here and there to go by. The journey from Edmonton to Cust's house was forced very much as we had to meet boats bringing up the bulk of our supplies which were taken up by contract to Hudson's Hope by Messrs. Brick Bros., traders of Peace river.

The average mileage per travelling day, excluding portaging at Cust's house, was 17½ miles a day, which is ahead of the average mileage of pack trains, thirteen miles being considered fair over a rough country.

Up to the time of reaching Graham we lost only two horses, one being drowned while trying to swim the Athabasca, and the other was poisoned on the Swan Hills.

American paper and pulp companies are looking to Canada more and more for their supply of spruce and the latest transaction reported has been put through by Charles Lionais and John N. Hickey, of Montreal. The firm is part of the international paper trust and the price paid was $1,850,000. The limits purchased, Mr. Lionais says, are situated on the north shore of the peninsula of Gaspe and the south shore of the St. Lawrence. The American company has a capital of $10,000,000 and will erect at once two pulp and saw mills, which will cost $100,000 each.
The pulp mills are to be of the capacity of 600 tons a day. A party of engineers left on Tuesday to locate the mills and make the necessary surveys. It is also stated that within two weeks some 1,500 men will be at work.
The new company will be called either the Matano Pulp company or the Labrador Pulp company, it is not definitely decided which.
